INTRODUCTION

Applicant Evaluation Committees (AEC) are used for strengthening the full-time hiring process to ensure the employment of the best applicant. The AEC assists the College President, as the ultimate hiring authority, who is responsible for the final selection of an applicant. The AEC process is required for all regular, full-time positions including equivalent grant-funded, expiring term positions unless an emergency temporary appointment is justified.

BASIC PRINCIPLES

Non-Discrimination/Equal Employment Opportunity. Del Mar College is committed to providing equal employment opportunity without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, gender, age or disability. All applicants must be treated in a fair and equitable manner.

Confidentiality. Any information used or discussed during the evaluation process will remain confidential to the evaluation and hiring process. This applies to all AEC members and all Department, Division, and Human Resources personnel. Breaches of confidentiality may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action and can also result in disbanding the AEC and canceling the evaluation process. All final records from the AEC are retained for a period of two years, as specified by the records retention schedule, and are subject to release under the Texas Public Information Act or other legal proceedings.

TIMELINESS

Consistent with achieving a diverse applicant pool that will produce high quality applicants, vacancies must be filled in the shortest timeframe possible after authorization to recruit has been given.

Faculty Positions

The identification, review and approval of faculty positions to be filled by the fall semester should be completed by November 01 of the preceding academic year. Faculty Chairs will submit their position requests to the administration by October 01 of each year to provide the President's staff time to review and authorize recruitment.

Recruitment advertisements will be issued in November and will close shortly after return from the December break.

Applicant evaluation committees will begin the evaluation process in January and will recommend applicants for selection before spring break of each year.

Unanticipated vacancies or requirements for additional faculty positions occurring outside this standard timeframe will be promptly submitted for review to obtain authorization to recruit. If needed, a second round of faculty positions may be advertised nationally for positions justified and approved in January. Advertisements for open positions will be done in an efficient manner with larger ads listing multiple positions to keep costs manageable. Unanticipated recruitment actions for faculty and exempt positions must be held to a minimum as each action will normally be advertised separately statewide and nationally; the expense of individual statewide and national advertisements will be greater than the cost for a larger advertisement that lists multiple vacancies.

Non-Faculty Positions

Non-faculty departments will submit requests to fill positions and obtain approval to recruit as the need arises. Departments will have the discretion on whether to appoint a committee for nonexempt positions.

APPLICANT EVALUATION COMMITTEES (AEC)

Appointment

Faculty The Dean/Chair will designate a standing Applicant Evaluation Committee (AEC) that is tasked with the responsibility for evaluating applicants for advertised faculty positions. Early appointment of the standing AEC is essential, e.g., recommended by the Department by April 1st and approval by the Dean by May 1. The assignment of the standing applicant evaluation committee is for the period from August to the following August.

The standing AEC must be comprised of a representative, diverse membership with job content knowledge. The standing AEC may be further staffed with subject matter faculty from the discipline of the position being advertised as the need arises.

Non-Faculty Departments will designate and obtain approval of application evaluation committee(s) as the need arises.

Vision/Charge to the AEC. After the AEC is approved and at the first meeting of the AEC, a vision/charge that explains the expectations of the position and the attributes desired of a selectee will be given to the AEC by the college official who is one organizational level above the department where the position is being filled.

Approval. The approval process for evaluation committees begins with an email from the department through the department's organizational hierarchy with final approval by the appropriate Vice President or Staff administrator reporting to the President. The AA/EEO office will be an addressee/reviewer to ensure diversity of the evaluation committee. Send a copy of all generated emails for the designation/approval of evaluation committees to the Human Resources Office.

Application Evaluation Committees should have no more than 7 members. Membership is limited to ensure that committees are not so large that it becomes difficult to find mutually agreeable times within the workweek to convene meetings.

Responsibilities

Chair of the AEC

- direct the evaluation process,
- coordinate and facilitate meetings,
- liaison with Human Resources and ensure a HR Representative attends the first AEC meeting to review applicant evaluation procedures,
- expedite the evaluation process,
- ensure all applicants are fairly and equitably evaluated,
- evaluate applicants,
- coordinate recommendations for selection,
- perform employer reference checks, and
- account for and submit all evaluation materials and applications and submit to Human Resources.

Members of the AEC

- evaluate applicants,
- maintain confidentiality of the evaluation process, and
- work as a cooperative member of the AEC to achieve consensus of AEC decisions.

Each committee member must give the evaluation task the necessary time and attention to achieve an accurate evaluation of the information provided by the applicant. Appendix I defines the responsibilities of AEC members for the proper and equitable evaluation of applicants and will be signed by each committee member.

Resolving Conflicts of Interest

Members (inclusive of the Chair) of the AEC may recuse themselves from serving on an AEC if they feel any of the following relationships may be a conflict of interest.

- The applicant is a family member as defined by College policy (B5.7).
- The applicant has a close personal relationship with the committee member.

Guidance and Support to the AEC

The Human Resources Office and the AA/EEO Office are available to assist the AEC and its members by maintaining an “open door” policy. The Offices are available to any AEC member(s) who wish to express any concerns the member may have about the on-going evaluation of applicants. Early reporting and resolution of potential problem areas are encouraged. Retaliation towards an AEC member who reports a perceived procedural problem or discriminatory act is not permitted.

The Human Resources Office will guide the AEC in compliance with applicant evaluation procedures. A Human Resources representative will meet with the AEC at its first meeting to review procedures. Questions or concerns about evaluation procedures or actions of the AEC that do not involve allegations of discrimination will be directed to the Human Resources Office. The Human Resources Office will review the stated question or concern and take appropriate action to guide the member or the full committee.

Any actions of the AEC that generates the perception of discriminatory treatment of an applicant will be immediately reported to the AA/EEO Office for review. The AA/EEO Office will advise the AEC and the Human Resources Office of the results of the review and provide recommendation(s) on corrective action, if possible, or cancellation of the evaluation process.

APPROVAL TO RECRUIT TO FILL A POSITION

The Department/Division will submit a PER 077, Position Justification, and a PER 001, Request for Advertisement, for approval to recruit. (For contract-funded positions, submit a GRA 102 and PER 001.)The content of the PER 001 will be coordinated with the approved standing AEC for faculty positions.

- The AEC will provide recommendations to the Department/Division Head for the content of the PER 001 (essential/minimum job requirements, preferred qualifications, advertisement of the vacancy in particular journals and newspapers to achieve a diverse and qualified applicant pool, opening/closing date of the advertisement, etc.). Education and experience requirements for faculty positions must meet minimum SACS credentialing standards.

- The completed forms will be submitted by Department/Division Heads for administrative review and approval. The signature block for the department head signature will reflect the concurrence of the AEC.

ADVERTISING POSITIONS

Ad Preparation and Issuance

Upon receipt of approved PER 077 and PER 001, the Human Resources Office will prepare a draft recruiting ad based on the content of the PER 001 and forward it to the department/division head for approval.

When the draft advertisement is approved, Human Resources will place the ad on the sites designated by the department/division, (i.e., Chronicle of Higher Education, Diverse Issues in Higher Education, Hispanic Outlook, metropolitan newspapers, the DMC website, DMCall email message, external electronic mailing list, participating college placement offices). Originating departments/divisions should clearly specify all specialized journals or websites where the advertisement should be posted. Originating departments/divisions may also place the advertisement on websites where they have membership and posting rights; these will be no-cost postings.

Departments/divisions, the Human Resources Office, and the AA/EEO Office have a joint responsibility for ensuring that the advertisement of the position vacancy produces a diverse applicant pool of qualified applicants.

Advertising Periods.

The timeframe for acceptance of applications will be:

External advertisements: full-time faculty and exempt positions will normally be opened for thirty (30) calendar days. Nonexempt positions will be opened for fourteen (14) calendar days.

Internal (employees only) advertisements: will be opened for five (5) working days. (All regular, temporary, and part-time employees may apply for consideration under an employees only advertisement; student workers and assistants are not eligible to apply under an employees only advertisement.)

ACCEPTANCE OF APPLICATIONS

Applicant Responsibility. Applicants are responsible for submitting a complete application with all supporting documentation required by the recruiting advertisement. Applicants must submit a separate application packet for each position for which they wish to be considered; duplicating applicant packets is not the responsibility of HR or the AEC.

Facsimile and email applications will not normally be accepted and the advertisement will advise applicants of this provision (this avoids incomplete applications, e.g., paper jams in the facsimile machine, applicant email using software programs that cannot be opened and/or read by the college).

Recruitment advertisements will advise applicants that the college will accept unofficial copies of transcripts and that it is the applicant's responsibility to submit transcripts, official or unofficial, with their application packet. The college requires submission of a complete application packet.

Applicants who fail to submit a complete application are not considered to be applicants as they have not complied with the college's application requirements.

Consideration of Applications. Applications must be received in the HR Office by the published closing date of the job advertisement. The college is not required to wait for submission and receipt of transcripts from colleges attended by the applicant in order for the application packet to be complete.

Incomplete applications and applications received after the closing date of the recruiting advertisement will be retained by the Human Resources Office. However, the AEC may request incomplete applications from the Human Resources Office if it determines there is a compelling reason to consider all applicants, i.e., a very small applicant pool. In such instances, the AEC must contact each applicant and provide the applicant with the opportunity to complete their application. This will be done by letter or email and documented in the recruitment file.

Applicant submission of the names and telephone numbers of 3 most recent employers (needed for employer reference checks) will be requested by the AEC from applicants invited for an on campus interview. (Consideration will be given for applicants whose work history has less than 3 previous employers.) Applicants will be required to submit this information at the time of the interview since this information is used later in the evaluation process, e.g., when the evaluation committee is considering which of the highly qualified applicants will be recommended for selection.

EVALUATION PROCEDURES

Regular faculty positions and regular Exempt positions. Evaluation committees are required. The AEC will use an evaluation matrix.

The evaluation matrix will be prepared and submitted for approval to Human Resources during the open recruitment period of the advertisement. The AEC will meet immediately after the closing date of the advertisement and begin the evaluation process. Appendix II provides guidance for preparation for the first and subsequent committee meetings.

The AEC may obtain applications from Human Resources when the evaluation matrix has been coordinated and approved and the ad has closed. (The AEC may use the original applications in the evaluation process or the AEC may copy the applications and distribute a set of applications to each member. The AEC will maintain the security and confidentiality of all applications and supporting documents.)

Regular Nonexempt. An evaluation committee is optional. A department head or designated supervisor may conduct the evaluation process; however, an evaluation matrix must be used to document the evaluation process.

Attendance An AEC member must complete the initial evaluation of preferred/desired knowledge, skills and abilities (KSA) factors section to be able to participate in subsequent applicant evaluation, e.g., telephone interviews, on-campus interviews and teaching or skill demonstrations. While the audio recording of committee meetings is not required, a committee member who is not present during telephone interviews, on campus interviews and teaching or skill demonstrations cannot continue in the evaluation process unless the telephone interviews, on campus interviews and teaching or skill demonstrations were audio or video recorded and the committee member reviews the recordings and completes the required evaluation processes.

THE EVALUATION MATRIX

Content The evaluation matrix will be composed of the following sections. The content of the evaluation matrix must conform to the essential job requirements that were advertised to Del Mar College employees and/or the public. See Appendix III.

- Initial Evaluation of Essential Job Requirements: These are the minimum application submission and qualification requirements stated in the recruiting advertisement that must be met for the applicant to be eligible for consideration.
- Preferred/Desired Knowledge, Skills and Abilities (KSA) factors: Each eligible applicant is evaluated and ranked according to the degree to which the factors are documented in the application. A factor may be weighted according to its importance or value to the successful performance of the essential duties and responsibilities of the position.
- Telephone interview (optional): May be used when there is a group of highly qualified applicants to further evaluate the group and reduce the number to those who will be invited to an on-campus interview. A list of pre-approved questions is provided as Appendix IV. Any additional job-related interview questions developed by the AEC must be reviewed and approved by Human Resources and AA/EEO.
- On-Campus Interview: Self-explanatory. A list of pre-approved questions is provided as Appendix IV. Any additional job-related interview questions developed by the AEC must be reviewed and approved by Human Resources and AA/EEO.
- Skills and/or teaching demonstrations (optional): May be used to further evaluate the qualifications stated in the application, communication skills, etc.

THE EVALUATION PROCESS

Initial Evaluation of Essential Job Requirements

These are the minimum application submission and qualification requirements stated in the recruiting advertisement that must be met for the applicant to be eligible for consideration. The applicant's possession of the Essential Job Requirements may be documented by a simple "Yes or No" decision.

(Some applications may be incomplete, e.g., missing a required document or information, and the application will be retained by Human Resources. As stated above, the AEC, however, has the option of requesting these applications and requesting applicants to provide any missing documentation required by the advertisement as long as all such applicants are provided the same opportunity. This is an alternative that may be used to maintain a viable pool of applicants for consideration. The AEC will initiate the request using Appendix V and advise the applicant of the deadline for submission of the requested documents to the Human Resources Office. A copy of the request by the AEC will be provided to the Human Resources Office. Upon receipt of the requested documents, the Human Resources will date stamp the documents and forward the materials to the AEC.)

This section of the evaluation matrix is to be completed and signed by each evaluator for each applicant and attached to the application. There should be consistency among all evaluators, e.g., all evaluators agree that a requirement(s) is or is not met. If differences of opinion exist on a requirement(s), the evaluators should discuss the differences and reach consensus on a final decision on whether the requirement(s) is or is not met. Consensus should be documented by member signatures.

The evaluation committee may designate a sub-committee to review applications to determine whether applicants possess the essential job requirements to be eligible for further consideration. If a sub-committee is used, the sub-committee will present its findings and recommendations to the full evaluation committee for consideration and adoption by consensus of the full evaluation committee. This section of the evaluation matrix will be signed by all members of the evaluation committee to document individual and full committee consensus with the sub-committee findings.

Record the Initial Evaluation of Essential Job Requirements using Appendix VI. Appendix VI and the application(s) of ineligible applicants are to be immediately forwarded to Human Resources for review. Any issue identified by the Human Resources Office will be promptly reported to AEC for action. Ineligible applicants will be notified of their status by the Human Resources Office.

Applicant Ranking

Eligible applicants will be evaluated and ranked in each of the following sections of the evaluation matrix. Each section will reflect a ranking of each applicant beginning with #1, for the best qualified applicant to the least qualified applicant.

Evaluation of Preferred/desired knowledge, skills and abilities (KSA) factors.

Applicants who meet all Essential Job Requirements will be further evaluated and documented by this section using Appendix VII. Each evaluator will assign a rank order to the eligible applicants, and the rankings assigned by each evaluator for an applicant will be totaled on the form provided in Appendix VII. Highly qualified applicants are identified by ranking totals in inverse order such that the lowest score designates the highest standing applicant. This ranking will not be used again in the evaluation process. In other words, do not add this total to the totals from subsequent telephone interviews, on campus interviews and teaching or skill demonstrations.

Highly qualified applicants to be interviewed are identified by the AEC by examining the totals for a “break” which is a clear difference in totals among the highly qualified versus qualified applicants.

All AEC members must complete the evaluation and ranking of each applicant; “missing” scores are not acceptable. If a committee member fails to rank all eligible applicants, the partial rankings provided by that committee member must be removed from the totals to be fair and consistent to all applicants.

The applications and evaluations of qualified applicants who are not identified for an interview will be immediately returned to the Human Resources Office for review. Include a listing of all evaluated applicants using Appendix VII. Place an asterisk beside the name of applicants identified for an interview. Any issue identified by the Human Resources Office will be promptly reported to the AECr action. Applicants will be notified of their status by the Human Resources Office.

Telephone Interviews (Optional)

Following the telephone interview, the applications and evaluations of highly qualified applicants who are not identified for an on-campus interview should be immediately returned to the Human Resources Office for review. Include a listing of all evaluated applicants using Appendix VIII. Place an asterisk beside the name of applicants identified for an on-campus interview. Any issue identified by the Human Resources Office will be promptly reported to the AEC for action. Applicants will be notified of their status by the Human Resources Office.

Scheduling On-Campus Interviews

The AEC should be aware of the expense and time involved in on-campus interviews and should select a reasonable number of applicants to be interviewed and scheduling is to be done by the most economical means possible.

Applicants will be advised by the AEC of DMC’s requirement for employer reference checks using Appendix IX to obtain the names and telephone numbers of three of the applicant’s most recent employers and to authorize the college to conduct the employer reference checks. This form should be completed and returned to the AEC prior to a final commitment for an on-campus interview.

The AEC makes arrangements for the interviews and ensures applicants are also interviewed by the Division/Department Head, the appropriate Vice President, and the President (optional). The timeframe allotted for each interview should be uniform.

Interviewees may be scheduled to participate in Division/Department social forums to acquaint the applicant with department employees and operations.

The on-campus interview schedule will be distributed to the members of the AEC, the Department/Division/Vice President, and the Human Resources Office.

Applicants will make their own travel and hotel arrangements. The Human Resources Office will provide the AEC with information concerning travel and reimbursement policies and the AEC will provide this information to applicants.

Interviewees will be reimbursed for allowable expenses, according to current policy, by submitting their signed request for reimbursement, with receipts to the AEC. Interviewed applicants should also complete an exit interview form. These forms are available on the DMC Intranet website. The blank form should be given to the applicant with a DMC envelope addressed to the Coordinator, Recruitment & Employment, Human Resources Office; the applicant will complete the form, seal it in the envelope, and return it to the AEC. The exit interview and any travel reimbursement request will be forwarded to the Human Resources Office.

As a courtesy, and not as a part of the evaluation process, out-of-town applicants may be taken to lunch by department personnel. Lunch expense for the host (one or two DMC employees) and applicant may be reimbursed in accordance with DMC per diem policy.

On-Campus Interviews.

This section of the evaluation matrix contains the interview questions. The AEC must develop appropriate interview questions using Appendix IV and include this section in the evaluation matrix. (The AEC has the option of using a skill(s) or teaching demonstration as a part of the on-campus evaluation process. If used, the AEC must develop appropriate content and include this section in the evaluation matrix.-

The interviewee will be advised of the need to provide specific and detailed responses to the interview questions. It is important that all questions be asked of each applicant in a consistent manner. If the applicant's response to an interview question is unclear to a member of the AEC, the member may ask for clarification only within the context of the original question. New questions or questions designed to elicit a desired response from the applicant to an approved question may not be asked by AEC members. The AEC Chair is responsible for ensuring compliance with the above. (See page 19)

Special Note: The AEC may elect to be prepared to record (audio and/or video) telephone and on-campus interviews and classroom or skills demonstrations in case an AEC member cannot be present, or does not appear, for an interview. An AEC member who is not present must review the recordings and complete their applicant evaluations in order to continue in the evaluation process. If recordings are not made, AEC members who did not participate in the interview and classroom or skills demonstrations cannot participate further in the evaluation process. The Chair of the AEC will ensure that the exclusion of AEC members from completing the evaluation process does not adversely affect the diversity of the committee.

The ranking of each applicant finalist on campus interviews (and teaching or skill demonstrations if used) are totaled using Appendix X. The ranking resulting from the on campus interviews (and teaching or skill demonstrations, if used) will be the determinant used by the AEC to identify the applicant finalists who will be recommended (after the required employer reference checks) for consideration for selection.

Employer Reference Checks

After completion of the interviews, the AEC will complete standardized employer reference checks, using the form PER 058 that is available on the DMC website, of applicants identified for recommendation for selection.

JUSTIFICATION AND REFERRAL OF FINALISTS BY THE AEC

If the AEC determines that no finalists are to be recommended for selection, the AEC submits its findings to the Department/Division and the recruiting process may begin anew.

If recommending three (3) or more finalists, the AEC prepares a Recommendation for Employment (PER 013 for faculty/exempt positions or a PER 030 for nonexempt positions). The forms are available on the DMC Intranet website. The appropriate form, and an optional strength/weakness statement for each recommended applicant addressing only job related factors, is prepared by the AEC and forwarded with the application/resume, evaluation sections (Appendix VI, VIII and X), and employer reference checks through the Department/Division and appropriate Vice President for review/approval. It is then forwarded to Human Resources for review. (A PER 101 is not to be submitted at this point.)

If the AEC is recommending fewer than three (3) finalists, the AEC prepares a letter of explanation to be forwarded with the recommendation.

CONCURRENCE WITH RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE AEC

The recommendations of the AEC are forwarded to the Department/Division for concurrence. If the Department, Division or Vice President does not concur with the AEC's recommendations, the Chair of the AEC will meet with the Department/Division Heads and the Vice President to discuss the recommendations and the reason(s) for non-concurrence. The Vice President or the executive administrator reporting to the President is responsible for determining the final course of action and advising the AEC and the Human Resources Office.

SELECTION

Following the review of the evaluation process by the Human Resources Office, the Recommendation for Selection is forwarded to the College President for selection. If the President declines to make a selection, the President informs the Vice President, Department/Division Heads, AEC and the Human Resources Office and the recruitment process may begin anew if authorized.

Written Offer of Employment. When a selection is made, Human Resources will prepare a written conditional offer of employment that reflects the appropriate conditions of employment and send it to the applicant with copies to the Department/Division. (If the position being filled is a labor-intensive position, the Human Resources Office will schedule the applicant for a physical examination and drug screen.) Non-selected finalists will be notified of their status by the Human Resources Office.

If the conditional offer of employment is accepted by the applicant, HR will notify the Department and request a PER 101 (available on the DMC Intranet website). The Department may contact applicant to request the date the applicant may be able to begin employment. Advise the applicant that this is not a final employment offer as the PER 101 is subject to final approval by the President. Human Resources will coordinate final approval of the PER 101.

A conditional offer of employment is final only after the PER 101 has been approved by the College President and the Department has been notified by receipt of a copy of the approved PER 101 or notification by the Human Resources Office.

If the applicant declines further consideration for employment, HR will advise the Department/Division. Human Resources will retrieve the PER 030 or PER 013, Recommendation for Employment, attach the email documenting the declination of the offer, and forward the PER 030 or PER 013 to the President for consideration of other recommended finalists. If no other applicants were recommended on the PER 030 or PER 030, the Division/Department may request approval to initiate a new search

Appendix II - Preparation for the First and Subsequent Committee Meetings

Once the position(s) is approved for advertisement, the Applicant Evaluation Committee (AEC) should begin its meetings. The committee will meet and finalize the evaluation matrix during the time the job advertisement is open. As a goal, the AEC should complete the applicant evaluation and recommendation process within 30 to 60 days of receipt of applications from the Human Resources Office.

Before the First Meeting, the AEC Chairperson:

- Reviews the DMC AEC Guidelines.
- Contacts the HR Representative in advance to schedule the first meeting and establishes a meeting date and time before the job closing date.
- Contacts all attendees to ensure that all will be present and on time. First meeting attendees include the Department Head/Chairperson, all committee members and a Representative from Human Resources.
- Assembles needed documentation and forms for first meeting (Committee Guidelines, Confidentiality/EEO Acknowledgment). This information can be downloaded from the DMC Intranet website.
- Prepares agenda to accomplish activities outlined below.

REMINDER: COMMITTEE MEMBERS MUST ATTEND ALL MEETINGS. THOSE WHO CANNOT MAKE THIS COMMITMENT MUST RECONSIDER THEIR PARTICIPATION ON THE COMMITTEE.

First Meeting Outcomes

The purpose of the first meeting is to inform the committee members about the applicant evaluation and committee process and provide information about the position being filled.

The Chairperson will explain the position and the characteristics of the successful candidate using the Job Advertisement and/or Job Description. The HR Representative reviews the evaluation process and answers questions.

The Committee Chairperson:

1. Establishes agreed upon future meeting times and dates
2. Leads a discussion of ground rules
3. Guides the Committee in the development of the evaluation matrix including the interview questions and teaching/skills demonstrations (if used).
4. Ensure committee minutes of all meetings are maintained/submitted to HR.

5. Submits the evaluation matrix to HR for review and coordination with AA/EEO.
APPLICATIONS CANNOT BE RELEASED UNTIL THE EVALUATION MATRIX IS COMPLETED AND APPROVED.

APPENDIX IV lists questions that could be used in an interview. The committee may consider these and other questions relative to the position's duties and responsibilities. Generally, a list of about 10 to 12 questions will serve to appropriately cover most positions. This number of questions will probably take the average candidate 45 to 60 minutes to answer. The committee should ask itself: "What 10 to 12 questions should be used to determine who among the successful paper review candidates are the best qualified?" All questions must be job-related and assess what it takes to be successful in the position. The committee should use consensus decision-making to agree on what questions will be used.

Questions to be avoided would be those that refer to any of the protected classes. These include: race, color, religion, national origin, gender, age or disability. In addition, questions which may be deemed personal in nature (information regarding marital status or spouse, children, hobbies, personal tastes or political, etc.) must also be avoided; such questions will invalidate the work of the committee.

The key to good interviewing is to ask questions which cannot be answered with a yes/no or a simple fact. Good interview questions elicit an answer that is "full" of content and useful information. It is very important to use questions that will produce successful results on the job. Interview questions must be objective, job related, measurable, and consistently applied to all interviewees. "Follow up" questions are appropriate as long as the "follow up" question pertains to the original question asked. Depending on the job, writing samples, teaching and skill demonstrations, solving specific problems and other "real-world" samples that pertain to the job may also be relevant.

It is important that all questions be asked of each candidate in a relatively consistent manner. Committee members may decide who will ask which questions to various candidates.

In addition to actual questions asked of the applicants, observations about candidates made during the interview may be evaluated if they are a part of the approved evaluation matrix. These observations must be job related as specified in the evaluation matrix. The interview may be considered a "sample of behavior" and these samples (if job related) may be evaluated just as responses to specific questions are. For example: If "oral communication skills" is one of the important qualifications for success in the job, then this factor may be evaluated based on results in the interview. Any sample of behavior demonstrated during the interview may be considered as a criterion of evaluation, however it must be job related and must be stated in the evaluation matrix.

NOTE: Unsolicited examples or samples of work provided by an applicant during an interview cannot be reviewed or considered during the committee process.

Committee members are responsible for evaluating applicants. The key to successful and uniform evaluation is common understanding and agreement upon the essential job requirements and the preferred/desired knowledge, skill and ability factors that an applicant should possess for successful performance in the position. Each committee member should give the evaluation task the necessary time and attention to achieve as accurate rating as possible with the information provided by the applicant.

The evaluation of the Essential Job Requirements determines which applicants possess the minimum qualification requirements of the position. Only qualified applicants are further evaluated.

The degree to which each applicant possesses the Preferred/Desired Knowledge, Skill and Ability factors for the position is evaluated next and the applicants are placed in a ranked order from the best to the least qualified applicant. This then determines which applicants will precede to the interview process.

Applicant qualifications are further evaluated using interview(s) (and optional teaching/skills demonstration) and applicants are ranked again. Based on the number of committee members, each applicant will receive a final summary rank based on the interview (and optional teaching/skills demonstration). Applicants with the best ranking will be the ones ultimately recommended for selection after the employer reference checks have been completed to move to the next step in the evaluation process.

Evaluations are CONFIDENTIAL within the committee. The ranking forms for each stage of the evaluation process (Appendix VI, VII, VIII and X) must be turned in to the committee Chairperson for inclusion in the working documents that are retained by HR Employment as a record of results.

Applicant Evaluation Results

Results of the evaluation of each applicant at each step of the process are recorded by the Chairperson on the appropriate ranking form (See Appendix Listing). Rank standing is determined by adding the rank assigned by each committee member completing a section of the evaluation matrix. The applications and the rankings form with individual committee members' signatures are returned to HR for review at the completion of each step of the process, such that:

- first, the applications and the initial evaluation form with the committee members' signatures (Appendix VI) for the ineligible applicants (did not meet all of the essential job requirements) are returned to HR;
- second, the applications and the ranking of qualified applicants (Appendix VII) who met all of the essential job requirements but did not rank high enough on the preferred/desired knowledge/skill/ability factors to be identified for an on campus interview are returned to HR;

- third, the applications, and ranking summaries (Appendix VI, VII and X) of interviewed applicants who were interviewed but who will not be recommended by the committee to the Hiring Authority for consideration for selection are returned to HR;

- and, last, the applications, all ranking forms, and employer reference checks of interviewed applicants, and appropriate recommendation form (PER 013 or PER 030) are forwarded via the Department/Division Heads and the cognizant Vice President to HR. HR will review the final submission and forward the recommendation and supporting documents after AA/EEO concurrence to the College President for selection.

It is common courtesy and good public relations to advise applicants of the status of their application at each step of the process. Human Resources will accomplish this task at the conclusion of each step of the process.

Recommendation of Applicants

If it is not possible to forward at least three finalists to the Hiring Authority, an explanation should be attached to the recommendation form. The list of finalists that is forwarded to the Hiring Authority is listed in alphabetical order so that ranking of finalists is not revealed.

Finalization of Paperwork

All paperwork from the evaluation and recommendation process (i.e., all applications and ranking summaries with signatures) must be submitted with the hiring recommendation before the evaluation and hiring processes can be completed.

Human Resources will assist with the final background check, the salary determination (as agreed with the Hiring Authority), and offers of employment.
